KNYVETT'S WIDOW BURIES GRIEF IN WORK FOR WOUNDED

MRS. HUGH KNYVETT

Mrs. Hugh Knyvett, the young widow of the famous Australian officer who died recently as a result of wounds during a lecture tour of America, believes war widows can find their best opportunity for service in war work for which their husbands died. Therefore she has gone into the work for the wounded and is working every day at the national headquarters of the American Fund for French Wounded, in New York.

"When I hear women talk about 'resting up' for the summer," says Mrs. Knyvett, "I cannot help thinking of the suffering of men over there who may die for lack of the dressings or bandages these women could make."

BIRTH OF NATION BARRED. CHARLESTON, June 19.—In a resolution adopted declaring it "is calculated to arouse hatred and prejudice between the white and negro races of the state which would produce a bad effect and likely hinder the proper co-operation between the races in promoting the greatest efficiency in war work," the State executive council of defense officially barred from West Virginia a motion picture film called "The Birth of a Nation."

The resolution was drawn on broad lines and prohibits the showing of any picture, play or show of like character or kind during the war with Germany.

WILL RENEW TREATY.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Renewal for five years of the general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain was approved today by the Senate foreign relations committee.

Frank L. (Lucky 13) Wright, Springfield (Ill.), carrier on city mail route No. 13, recently announced he had completed his campaign to sell war thrift stamps to every one of the 2,300 persons on his route. Among the number were 300 pupils in a junior high school.

A notice posted along the route of a certain Southern railroad states that during 12 months 2,795 head of cattle, horses and sheep were killed by the rains. This is the equivalent of 1,000,000 pounds of food, and would be sufficient to feed 70,000 soldiers for 30 days.

Herbert C. Hoover's salary as United States Food Administrator is $12 a year. He wished to serve without pay, but the government never accepts free services, so a nominal salary was arranged.

FAIRMONT HEARS OF ANOTHER HERO

But Lad at Lancaster, Ohio, is Not Marion Countian.

Considerable interest was aroused in Fairview and the surrounding territory this morning when the report was spread that Harry Huffman, of Lancaster, O., who was reported in yesterday's casualty list to have died of wounds, was Harry Huffman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huffman, former residents of Fairview, and grandson of Mrs. Harriet Vost Elkins.

For a time it was believed to be true for that particular Harry Huffman was known to be in the army. It developed, however, that close friends of young Huffman recently received a letter from him announcing that he was at an eastern camp and would sail for France June 13. So he is not yet in France.

That Harry Huffman is a member of a field artillery regiment, enlisted in St. Louis and got his training in a western camp. He has two uncles, Dr. Forest Vost and L. D. Underwood, both residing at Fairview, and another uncle, George Huffman, a resident of Locust avenue, this city. Two aunts also reside near Plum Run. He is also the grandson of Benjamin Huffman, a well known Marion county citizen.

He is a cousin to Lloyd Underwood, the young Fairview lad who was wounded in France several weeks ago, but who is now recovering at a hospital somewhere in France. All of which would have been doubly interesting if he had been wounded.

Huffman had served three years in the army before the outbreak of the present war and was visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Ekins of Fairview at the time of his second enlistment last fall. He visited friends and relatives in Fairview several times during the past year or two and is exceptionally well known in that town.

QUARTER IN 47 IS MARK SHEA IS SHOOTING AT.

By PAUL PURMAN.

"The thing that makes athletics of all sorts go over so big in America is because of the big element of chance. One can never tell what is going to happen."

An old time sportsman was talking and was including practically all of the sports generally followed by the American public.

It seemed particularly applicable at the time the remark was made as the wires had just carried the story of how Frank Shea, the Pittsfield mile runner had run a quarter in 47.5 over a track not in shape for him; speed.

Shea broke into the sprinting line last night when he won two relays for Pittsfield University at the Penn relays. In the final quarter of one of these races he ran close to 47 feet and beat out opponents who had big leads on him.

British Peasant Too Is a Hoarder of Gold

LONDON, June 19.—The high cost of living greatly enhanced by the war, is causing the poor in country districts to dig into their savings and is revealing that a considerable amount of gold has long been hoarded.

For generations it has been the custom of the English poor, particularly in villages, to save in gold, which they bury. They have little faith in banks, paper money or investments.

A few weeks ago an old shepherd died, and those that assembled in his cottage after the funeral were amazed to see one of the relatives attack the hearthstone with a crowbar to get at "the will," as he put it. He finally unearthed a hoard of 200 sovereigns.

Several days before an aged basket-maker died, he told a clergyman where he had his "stocking" buried. It was a pewter tea caddy containing more than 150 gold coins.

According to calculations of village wisecracks, the amount of golden sovereigns hoarded in English cottages reaches into the millions.

WANTS WINE MAKING STOPPED.

CHARLESTON, June 19.—State Prohibition Commissioner W. S. Hallahan is sending out letter to food administrators in all counties of the state soliciting their co-operation in the effort of his department to stop the practice of foreign born citizens in annually making up at this season large quantities of wine. Commissioner Hallahan raises the point that use of sugar and fruits for this purpose comes under the restriction of the Hoover administration for conservation of foods.

DEATH OF AN INFANT.

Thurman Dale Haney, who was born December 25 last, died at the home of his parents, Henry Oral and Lulu Gertrude Finch Haney, at Hammond on Monday of whooping cough. The death occurred at the home of the great-grandfather. Fred Jenkins is the undertaker.

Whereas, in 1881 we shipped abroad nearly 150,000,000 pounds of cheese, in 1914, just before the war cut off our trade, we shipped only 2,500,000.

Indiana Demmies For Budget System

(By Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, June 19.—To win the war speedily in preference to all other business is the pledge contained in the draft of the Democratic platform submitted to the Indiana State Democratic convention by the resolution committee here today. The report was made by Claude Bowers, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the committee.

It also pledges the party to continue the war until the object—to rid the world once for all of the threat of violent and injurious and from an autocratic government which has already committed outrages against the citizens of this country—is definitely obtained.

It declares that those who give whole hearted support to President Wilson are more liable to be of use in obtaining this end than those who see the mistakes of the administration.

The party is set forth as favoring the budget system of expenditures and the merchant marine. Another plank pledges that the party will continue its present policy toward labor.

EAT BREAD

But Be Sure That Bread Contains No Wheat.

By BIDDY BYE.

Baking bread without wheat flour is not at all unlike making bricks without straw. Most bread materials lack gluten and a little white flour is usually added to bind coarser flours together.

Now that the malting industry has been censured, a great quantity of barley has been released for domestic or home consumption. Uncle Sam would gladly see the kitchen divisions using up this material. Delicious bread and cake can be made of barley flour, without the addition of any white flour, but the product will lack the fine texture of the wheaten loaf.

Barley Spoon Bread: Cut salt pork in tiny cubes to the amount of 2 tablespoonfuls, brown delicately in a saucepan, add 1 quart hot water and boil; then add 1 cupful barley meal, sprinkling the meal in slowly and stirring constantly. Turn into a double boiler and cook 1 hour. Cool, and beat in 2 or 3 well beaten eggs. Spread in a greased pan and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

Barley Custard: Scald 5 cupfuls milk, and stir slowly into 1-3 cupful barley meal. Cook 20 minutes in a double boiler, then add 1-2 cupful molasses, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, 1 teaspoonful ginger and 1-3 teaspoonful salt. Beat well, turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake 2 hours in a slow oven. Serve with cream.

Barley Cake: Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until smooth, then add 1 tablespoonful lemon juice, 1 cupful sugar and 1 cupful barley flour. In a separate dish beat the whites of 4 eggs until stiff, then fold froth into the cake batter. Turn into an angel food pan and bake in a slow oven. Some cooks bake sponge cakes in a tin lined with a well-buttered paper.

Barley Porridge: For 1 part barley meal allow 4 parts water. Boil the water and add 1 teaspoonful salt to a quart of water. Stir in the barley meal slowly, and cook in a double boiler for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve with cream and sugar or dates, or raisins. It is a good plan to use a fireless cooker over night, when porridge is to be served for breakfast.
